

HEALTH: A CALL TO ACTION

CALL FOR PRESENTATIONS!

The inaugural HEALTH: A Call to Action conference invites researchers, professionals, service providers, students, and community members to present new research findings, culturally-informed prevention strategies, novel evidence-based interventions, best practices for community partnerships, and implementation innovations that advance health equity for all.

Who: Researchers, professionals, service providers, students, and community members

What: Student Poster Presentations, Oral Presentations, and Symposium Presentations

Presentation topics that address health disparities or provide innovative insights into health-equity science are preferred, with additional prioritization given to areas such as cancer, diabetes, mental health, obesity, population health, precision medicine, social determinants of health, substance use/abuse, and access to care. Moreover, presentations that provide guidance regarding novel prevention, early detection, diagnosis, treatment, and/or dissemination and implementation strategies for our underserved communities are encouraged.

Student Poster Presentations Guidelines

Oral or Symposium Presentations Guidelines

When and Where:

All presentations will take place

Friday, January 31st

University of Houston Main Campus

HELPING EVERYONE ACHIEVE
A LIFETIME OF HEALTH

JANUARY

30 | 31

2020

UNIVERSITY OF HOUSTON
MAIN CAMPUS

HOUSTON, TX

DEADLINE TO APPLY:

November 8, 2019

INNOVATIVE RESEARCH
AND PRACTICES IN HEALTH EQUITY SCIENCE

CONTACT US:

If you have any questions regarding the requirements or application process, please contact our team at:

HRIconference@gmail.com

READY TO APPLY?

Submit your proposal here

